

Mrs. Andreea - Emanuela DRĂGOI, PhD, senior research fellow of IWE has a strong background in the areas of sustainable rural development policies, renewable energies, competition policy in EU, Russian Federation economy and relations with EU and state aid policy. She has graduate (in 2012) the postdoctoral school "Economic Research, Support of Welfare and Human Development in European Context (CERBUN)" from the National Institute of Economic Research of the Romanian Academy. She has worked on over 50 research studies as author and on 8 as coordinator and she is member in editorial board of Global Economic Observer Journal, in cooperation with Titulescu University, and co-editor-in-chief of Euroinfo. She is the author and co-author of several books, chapters and articles focused on state aid policy in EU, sustainable rural development in EU, Russian Federation economy and the impact of international sanctionsssuch us (selection): Energy in the competitiveness race - global warming (coordinators Constantin Ciupagea, Virginia Câmpeanu) author in the book published on "Expert" Publishing House (2007); Renewable energies. Economic, social and ecological efficiency (coordinator Emilian M. Dobrescu), author in the book published on "Sigma" Publishing House (2009); Scenarios of evolution for Common Agricultural Policy in the context of COVID-19 crisis. Implications for the rights and moral integrity of EU farmers, Journal for Freedom of Conscience, 2020; Rural Development on the Principles of Economic and Social Sustainability, Expert Publishing House, 2013; Rural development, a factor for reducing regional disparities in the European Union (coordinator), Granada Publishing House, 2015; Common Agricultural Policy - Half a century under the pressure of reforms. Transformations on the Financing of European Rural Space, Granada Publishing House, 2015; Crimean Crisis Impact on International Economy: Risks and Global Threats (co-author S. Moagăr-Poladian), Procedia Economics and Finance 22, 452-462, 2015; Russian Foreign Policy – Interest Vectors and Economic Impact, Global Economic Observer 3 (2), 2015). She started and continued the professional activity within IWE since 2003. Since 2012, she has coordinated several reasearch programs of IWE such us (selection): Sustainable rural development and the Europe 2020 Strategy in the post-crisis period; The role of state aid policy in supporting financial stability in the EU. Economic and social impact in the context of the current international crisis; European Union: Rural development, a factor in minimizing regional disparities, The Russian Federation in the current regional and world economic situation. Development of strategic partnerships. She participated as member of reasearch team in the following projects: The impact of disasters on European economies: drought and floods (2008). Mrs. Drăgoi participated as an expert in numerous national and international research projects. In 2005 she participated as expert in the project Sustainable Development of Romania in European and Global Context (SDREGC), as author of reasearch reports on sustainable development strategies and pro-sustainable development policy measures for Romania at the horizon of 2010, 2020. In 2007 she has participated as expert in the project PNCDI II – Partnerships Romanian personalities and economic institutions Romanian added value to the European identity (EPIR). Between 2013 and 2014 she participated as expert in the project Dialogue and experience exchange regarding renewable energy policies, identifying opportunities for cooperation between China-Romania. Between 2014 and 2015, she worked as an editing expert and coordinated the volumes edited within the European Programme „Doctorial and post-doctorial programs for research support” - Impact of Socioeconomic and Technological Transformations at a National, European and World Level.

Currently she is member of the research team of the Center for Writing European Projects in the field of Climate Change under the Institute for World Economy coordination starting with July 2020.